CHAMBERLAIN HITLER IN PARLEY

EXTRA

BERCHTESGADEN, Sept. 15—Face-to-face, and man-to-man, Prime Minister Chamberlain of Great Britain and Reichsfuehrer Hitler of Germany met today with the peace of Europe hanging in the balance of their discussions. Chamberlain arrived at 11:02 a. m. (Boston time) by special train from Munich after an air trip from London. Crowds cheered him at the station. He was received by Dr. Otto Meissner, chief of the chancellery, who conducted him to Hitler's home, Berghof on Obersalzberg. (Details on Page 2)

CHAMBERLAIN AND HITLER IN CRUCIAL DUEL OF WITS

ENVOY OF PEACE—Clutching the umbrella he never leaves behind and wearing his dark overcoat and his gray hat, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain arrives in Germany for a private talk with Hitler at Berchtesgaden today. Meanwhile the peace of Europe hangs in balance as the snarling Sudetens threaten open revolt in Czechoslovakia.

World Looks on Fearful of War

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany, Sept. 15—The most momentous conference in European history since the Allies' generals met with the vanquished Central Powers to sign the armistice in 1918 was set in motion today when Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Britain came to Berchtesgaden and began a personal man-to-man peace talk with Reichsfuehrer Alopf Hitler.

Breaking all precedents for British diplomacy, the British premier flew to Munich from London, rode to Berchtesgaden aboard a special train and then motored to Hitler's picturesque mountain villa high in the Bavarian Alps above Obersalzburg.

It was 4:03 p. m. (11:03 a. m. Boston time) when the special train carrying Chamberlain, two of his closest advisers, and a battery of experts from the German foreign office pulled into the little Berchtesgaden station.

GREETED BY HITLER

The entire party went immediately to the Grand hotel and after a brief halt began the long climb in limousines over the winding roads leading to Hitler's beautiful villa.

Chamberlain reached the Berghof, as Hitler's house is officially known, at 5 p. m. (noon Boston time).

The Feuhrer was at the entrance to greet the distinguished visitor whose bold initiative in behalf of world peace was without parallel or precedent.

Psychologically, at least, there was a striking similarity between this first meeting of British premier and German Fuehrer and the convocation of generals in a Pullman car on a railway siding in France on Nov. 11, 1918.

For then, as now, the entire

Chamberlain's Wife Prays for Peace

LONDON, Sept. 15 (AP)—Beautiful Mrs. Annie Chamberlain prayed in Westminster Abbey today for success of her husband's journey to Berchtesgaden to save the peace of the world.

Mrs. Chamberlain

The prime minister's wife unobtrusively joined kneeling worshipers around the tomb of Britain's Unknown Warrior—the symbol of millions of dead in a cataclysm of which Chamberlain was trying to prevent a repetition.

Earlier she had walked alone in St. James's park, where she usually accompanies her husband on his morning stroll to feed the birds.

Also alone she walked to the majestic abbey, leaving the brilliant fall sunshine and the roar of traffic, to join a hundred hushed and solemn worshipers praying, like herself, for her husband and peace.

As Chamberlain droned over London and headed for Germany, the great west doors of Westminster Abbey slowly swung open to admit a group of office workers, who knelt round the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

Alone and in twos and threes, young men and women silently entered the musty dim abbey in brief supplication before hurrying to work. Nurses from Westminster Hospital, across the street from the abbey, visited the church after ending their night of duty. They took their places beside a crippled ex-soldier and near Mrs. Chamberlain.

Doctors Report Goering Better

BERLIN, Sept. 15 (AP)—Doctors noted an improvement today in the condition of Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, who has a leg inflammation and catarrh. His temperature was almost normal.

BARBED WIRE entanglements are child's play to these Czech infantrymen shown in recent war maneuvers testing defence along German border. Skill may be put to use if Sudeten row is not settled today by Hitler and Chamberlain.

Lashes Czech 'Brutalities'

Henlein Demands Nazi Annexation

PRAGUE, Sept. 15 (AP)—Sudeten Leader Konrad Henlein issued a proclamation today demanding annexation of the Sudeten German regions of Czechoslovakia by Germany.

The proclamation, which was addressed to Sudeten Germans and Germans in the Reich, declared, "it is definitely impossible for Sudeten Germans and Czechs to live in the same state."

"The Sudeten Germans want to return to our home in the Reich," it said, complaining that self-determination had been denied them in 1919.

"The Sudeten Germans have never renounced the right of self-determination. God bless us in our just fight!"

Thousands of Sudetens in Reichenberg gathered in the streets after hearing Henlein's proclamation and shouted demands that Sudeten territory be united with Germany. Martial law had not been imposed in Reichenberg.

The proclamation was broadcast through Germany and was transmitted to the Czechoslovak government by Henlein.

It assailed methods used by the Czechoslovak government in efforts to crush disorders which have caused at least 23 deaths in Sudeten areas in the past three days.

The proclamation declared:

"My compatriots, as a man whom you trust and conscious of my responsibility, I proclaim to the whole world that the use of machine-guns, armored cars and tanks against defenseless Sudeten Germans has reached the highest point of Czech oppression.

"Thereby the Czech people have demonstrated before the whole world that it is definitely impossible for Sudeten Germans and Czechs to live in the same state.

"The experience of 20 years of oppression and above all the p rty sacrifices of the past few days make it my duty to declare:

"1—In the year 1919 we were denied the promised right of self-determination and against our wills were forced into the Czech state.

"2—Without at any time renouncing our right for self-determination, we have attempted, by giving frequent sacrifices, to find a proper place in the Czech state.

"3—All our efforts to persuade the Czech people and its responsible leaders to make honorable and just compromises have failed because of their irreconcilability.

"We wish to live as free German men! We want to work at peace in our homes! We want to return to our home in the Reich! God bless us in our just fight!"

The cabinet immediately began to study the proclamation at Prague

2 Women Back Hop For Peace

LONDON, Sept. 15 (AP)—Two women were credited in London society circles today with a big part in Prime Minister Chamberlain's decision to cut through centuries of Britain's staid, diplomatic red tape to talk face to face with Adolf Hitler.

They were Virginia-born Lady Nancy Astor and Lady Chamberlain, widow of the prime minister's late half-brother, Sir Austen Chamberlain, the distinguished statesman.

Lady Astor is a leading figure in that mysterious "Cliveden set" which drew attention a few months ago when Chamberlain unlimbered his "realistic" policy of appeasing Europe's dictators.

She and her Conservative "pro-German" coterie were charged by left-wing newspapers with exerting powerful influence at No. 10 Downing street.

The movements of Lady Chamberlain have been even more mysterious. She was in Italy for months sipping tea with Premier Mussolini and his son-in-law, Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano, before Chamberlain made the overtures which resulted in the Easter pact of friendship with Italy.

That pact still is ineffective, but it spurred Chamberlain's hope of pacifying Hitler and reaching a general European settlement.

Lady Chamberlain has just concluded a tour of insurgent Spain as a privileged guest of Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

But her brother-in-law has been too concerned about the German Nazis and their intentions in Czechoslovakia to give attention to any potential deals with Franco.

Hitler Talks With Duce, Drafts New Demands

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany, Sept. 15 (INS)—Armed with a huge dossier of Nazi complaints against Czechoslovakia, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler drafted his demands for the Sudetens today as Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Britain journeyed here aboard a special train from Munich.

LADY ASTOR LADY CHAMBERLAIN

Femininity Behind British Diplomacy

The first meeting between the British premier and Nazi Germany's Fuehrer will, according to high Nazi quarters, take on the aspect of a four-power conference.

For just as Chamberlain consulted Premier Edouard Daladier of France before deciding on his historic mission, Hitler conferred with Premier Mussolini of Italy.

DRAFTS HIS REPLY

Hitler spent the morning at his desk, studying the entire Sudeten problem and preparing himself to meet his distinguished visitor with strong arguments in support of the Nazi-Sudeten stand.

Chamberlain was due to reach the Berchtesgaden station punctually at 6 p. m. (1 p. m. E. D. T.).

Roosevelt Stops To Get War News

ABOARD PRESIDENTIAL Special En Route to Washington, Sept. 15 (INS)—President Roosevelt paused briefly at Pittsburgh today to recheck with Secretary of State Cordell Hull the latest developments in the Nazi-Czech crisis over the long distance phone.

An air mail pouch, containing last minute dispatches from Europe's capital, also was put aboard the President's Washington-bound special.

The President will arrive in Washington shortly after 7 o'clock this evening to assure a closer directing hand on America's role in the international crisis.

Tomorrow afternoon, the cabinet will hold its customary Friday session. The Friday press conference, however, has been cancelled.

Rich Haverhill Man Suicide

HAVERHILL, Sept. 15—Clifton G. Ellis, one of the wealthiest men in this section of the state, was found dead today in the monoxide-filled garage of his palatial residence.

Dr. John L. O'Toole, medical examiner, pronounced Ellis a suicide.

Ellis, 54, was president and treasurer of the C. G. Ellis Leather company.

He had been living alone for several weeks in his $50,000 estate on Saltonstall road in the exclusive residential district of the city.

His wife and two children, Mrs. Leslie George, Jr., 26, and Donald, 25, were away for the summer at Rockport.

According to police and medical authorities who investigated the case, Ellis was found when his chauffeur forced open the doors of the six-car garage.

Ellis was seated behind the wheel of his coupe, the switch turned on and the gas tank empty, indicating the motor had run itself out, officials stated.

He had been arrested last night by Quincy police on the morals charge and was on bail to await arraignment.

His body, suspended by a flat-iron cord to a door in the living room, was discovered by his son, John, 11 years old.

Medical Examiner George Dalton pronounced Holgerson a suicide.

Rescues 16 In Flaming Boston Bus

NORWALK, Ct., Sept. 15 (AP) — Sixteen passengers and the driver of an interstate bus bound from Boston to New York escaped to safety today in fire which destroyed the vehicle which had halted to take on gasoline.

The loss was estimated at $15,000.

Many of the passengers, some of whom were asleep at the time, were assisted from the bus by Herman Masse of Peterborough street, Boston, the driver, after Walter Johnson, attendant at the filling station and eating place, shouted a warning of fire.

PASSENGER AIDS

Masse was aided by John Gross of Brooklyn, N. Y., a passenger. He said several of the women helped to safety were without their shoes.

The fire, which swept quickly through the bus, spread to the frame restaurant on the Boston Post road and gave firemen a hard fight before it was put out.

Those rescued besides Gross were: Mack Huller of the Bronx, New York; Loretta Putnam of Roxbury, Mass.; the Rev. R. H. Gross of Greenwich; Julius L. Cable of Dorchester, Mass.; Herman Seebeck of Everett, Mass.; Florence Wesley of Boston, Mass.; Saima Nikela of Waban, Mass.; Lucille Barwick and Mary Rogers, both of Thomasville, Ga.; Mrs. Rose Sloan of Detroit, Mich.; Percival Dove of New York; Granville Owens of Dayton, O.; Andrew Joyce of the Bronx, New York; Sidney Nadler of Dorchester, Mass.; Dso Kazanyi of Bridgeport.

10 Autoists Fall Into Anti-Speed Trap

An anti-speed campaign result of the fatal bus crash near Charlton, in which seven persons were killed and 12 injured, today had trapped 10 autoists as state troopers and county officers made an all-night patrol of oute 20, scene of the accident.

With motorcycle police lying in wait at secret traps and a lower court judge holding an all-night court to hear charges, unsuspecting drivers from many states fell into the net. Seven were fined. Three were released on bail pend-

Girl Diver Finds $4250 in Gems

NAPLES, Me., Sept. 15—Brought up from the bottom of Sebago Lake by a girl diver, using helmet and air hose for the first time in her life, a $4000 pearl necklace and a $250 diamond ring were back in the hands of their owner today.

The costly trinkets were accidentally dropped from a canoe by wealthy young Mrs. Elizabeth Marvin, former tennis star, of Waterbury, Ct.

They fell into deep water, off Treasure Island, half a mile out in the lake from exclusive Highland Nature Camp here.

Heroine of the diving expedition was pretty, 20-year-old Ruth Thornton, New York are teacher.

The underwater rig she wore was borrowed from Camp Mechano, a vacation school, where well-to-do boys receive summer training in technology and mechanical arts.

Miss Carol Lehman, 20, daughter of the director of Highland Nature Camp, had a plan.

"I know how to work the diving rig and air pump," she said. "I can man the pump and handle the lines if somebody else will do the actual diving."

First to volunteer for the risky job was Miss Thornton.

STRAP HER IN

Quickly recruited was a boat crew of other girls from the camp.

Ruth Thornton, a strong swimmer and an all-round athlete, was strapped into a waterproof rubber jacket.

She wore weighted shoes, but disdained the heavy trousers of the diving suit.

Altogether, she made a dozen descents in water that varied from 25 to 40 feet in depth.

At last, her efforts were rewarded. When she was pulled up, her shivering hands clutched the lost valuables.

Missing Girl Case to Jury

A touch of the sinister was introduced into the disappearance of Shirley Smith of Winchester today, as Dist. Atty. Warren L. Bishop pressed the Middlesex grand jury for indictments.*

The 17-year-old high school graduate and playground instructer left home on August 20.

Bishop would not discuss the form of the indictments he wanted. Witnesses included C. Harold Smith, father of the missing girl, Sergeant Thomas Cassidy of the Winchester police, and three others.

Bishop has ordered Assistant District Attorney William J. McCluskey and Lieutenant Daniel O'Connell to continue their investigation of the case.

Winchester police were busy, getting up circulars.

Chief William Rogers of Winchester said Shirley took out $50 from her bank account just before she disappeared.

She had an interest in aviation, and had discussed an aviation course in Texas with girl friends.

George Crushes Deal; Talmadge Runs Second

ATLANTA, Sept. 15 (AP)—Senator Walter F. George, whose retirement was asked by President Roosevelt, held an increasing lead for renomination as additional unofficial returns came in today from the Georgia Democratic primary.

Former Governor Eugene Talmadge, New Deal critic, ran second and New Dealer Lawrence S. Camp, endorsed by the President for the Senate, was last in the Wednesday balloting.

Camp conceded defeat last night.

Senator George was leading in 78 counties with 222 unit votes. Fifty-six of them, with 152 unit votes, were complete. In 15 of the 26 additional counties, with 46 unit votes, only one precinct was missing in each.

LEADS IN 72 COUNTIES

There are a total of 410 unit votes in Georgia, 206 being necessary to establish a winner in this race.

Talmadge was ahead in 72 counties with 160 unit votes. Of this number, complete returns were in from 35 counties, with 80 unit votes and Talmadge was leading in 19 other counties, which lacked only one precinct each of completion. These 19 counties had 42 unit votes.

In the Camp column were nine counties totalling 28 unit votes. Five were complete and he was ahead in another county with two unit votes in which only one precinct was missing.

With 1597 of the 1735 precincts in the state reporting, George's popular vote was 123,403; Camp's 66,405 and Talmadge's 89,174.

The total popular vote in the senate race was 278,982, or 64.08 per cent of the state registration.

OFFERS CONGRATULATIONS

Governor E. D. Rivers, seeking renomination to "complete" a little New Deal program, was leading in 95 counties with 264 unit votes.

Hugh Howell, former Democratic State chairman, was second in the gubernatorial race with 144 unit voters in 63 counties. Popular returns for governor were Rivers 139,496, Howell 115,570, Mangham 15,368 and Wood 1528.

Camp offered congratulations to "the successful candidate" last night without naming him.

DEAL DEFIED—Senator and Mrs. Walter F. George cast their votes in Georgia primary at Atlanta . . . two against President Roosevelt's New Deal. As vote counting progressed, it was found they were merely echoing sentiments of majority in Georgia.

Maine Torture Mother Guilty

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 15—Weeping and near collapse, slim, dark-haired young Mrs. Pearl Wheeler of Bath was found guilty today of having beaten, choked, scalded and burned her eight-year-old daughter, Betty.

The verdict convicting the mother of assault on the child was returned by a jury of eight men and four women.

Principal witness against Mrs. Wheeler was the little "torture" victim.

She said her mother held her hands in a sink of scalding water, branded her with a hot flatiron and beat her for an hour at a time.

Neighbors testified they heard the child's screams and sounds of scuffling.

Mrs. Wheeler was previously tried in Bath but the jury disagreed.

Death was due to heart disease.

CobbSpeeds Over 350

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, Sept. 15 (INS)—John R. Cobb, London fur broker, today established a new world's land speed record of 350.29 miles per hour on the glistening saline race course on the Western Utah desert.

With salt spray hurtling through the air, Cobb drove his 24-cylinder beetle-shaped Railton over the 13-mile course and through the measured mile at a speed that exceeded by about five miles per hour the record established a few weeks ago by his fellow-countryman, Capt. George E. T. Eyston.

Proving the supremacy of his odd-looking Railton speedster, which weighs about 7000 pounds, Cobb shot through the measured mile twice at fantastic speeds, first for 353.29 miles per hour and a second time at 347.1 miles per hour.

South End Fights Seven-Day Saloon

Protesting that conditions in the South End were "deplorable," Bertha A. Hilton, of Massachusetts avenue, opposed the petition of Ross A. Maloof, of Tremont street, before the Boston License Board today to sell liquor seven instead of six days a week.

Denied Permit to Wed, 72 and 87 Angered

PEABODY, Sept. 15—"They got no right to do this to us. It's it's a free country. We've got a right to get married. If I knew anybody who had an automobile and would drive us up to New Hampshire, we'd get married, I'll tell you!"

So said Mrs. Mary Hill, 72, Park street, Peabody, today while City Clerk Edward J. Dowd remained adamant in his refusal to permit her and 87-year-old William Waterhouse to file marriage intentions.

"A close friend of Waterhouse stepped in and asked me to refuse," Dowd explained.

"In 1924 Mrs. Hill sought to file marriage intentions with another man, and that man's family, at that time, intervened.

"Mr. Waterhouse is an old man. I don't believe he should be permitted, under the circumstances, to take this step."

Mrs. Hill, angrily threatening to appeal to Governor Hurley but as yet doing nothing about it, declared—

"We love each other. Why shouldn't we get married? We each get our old-age pensions. We could live very comfortably. I'd be awful good to him. I know he's old, but who wants a young man, anyway? Old men stay at home."

Waterhouse, his movements feeble, turned slowly when a reporter asked him his opinion.

"Anything Mrs. Hill says is o.k.," he said.

Town Taxi Drivers Win Pay Dispute

The State Unemployment Compensation Commission today ruled that the more than 100 former drivers for the Town Taxi, Inc., are eligible for unemployment compensation from the date of their registration "after August 20" if they still are unemployed.

The commission ruled that stoppage of work after August 20 was not due to a labor dispute, but was caused by the financial condition of the company. The company was adjudged bankrupt September 3, following a strike.

City's Gas Rate Claim Under Fire

"The arguments of the city prove only that if things didn't cost as much as they do they would be cheaper than they are."

That was the reply voiced by Attorney Robert H. Holt, counsel for the Boston Consolidated Gas Company, to the city's charges before the State Department of Public Utilities that the gas company's Boston cost of production figures are misleading.

Holt quoted 1937 figures of 11 other gas companies in Massachusetts showing their costs running as high as 38 cents and averaging 34 cents, compared with the Boston company's showing of 23½ cents.

The Boston company is asking the Department of Public Utilities to o. k. a contract for the purchase of gas from Eastern Gas & Fuel Associates, Inc. The city has objected that the contract price is too high.

Russell Warns Of Selfish Aims

By ALFRED D. WHELTON

Nomination of either of his three opponents would turn the leadership of the party over to "selfish politicians and demagogues," it was charged today by Richard M. Russell, Democratic candidate for governor.

"This campaign," Russell said, "is more to determine leadership of the party rather than to place anyone immediately in office.

"Governor Hurley and Lieutenant Governor Kelly will be unable to achieve the leadership of the party and ex-Governor Curley would be a sure leader in November."

Russell will center his Boston drive at rallies in Roxbury and Brighton tonight. His attacks have been centered more against Curley than the other candidates.

• • •

Labor's Non-Partisan League today announced endorsement of Sheriff John A. Kelliher of Suffolk County for renomination. The same organization endorsed former Governor Curley for the Democratic nomination for governor, adding that speakers from the league would be sent to Curley rally as well as to his rallies.

• • •

Lieutenant Governor Kelly left today for the western section of the state with his objective a huge rally to be broadcast from Tech hall in high school in Springfield tonight between 10 and 11.

Before leaving he assailed Governor Hurley for failure of industry in Massachusetts and promised more revelations at the rally tonight. In his quest for promotion to the governor's chair, the young lieutenant governor also took another fling at former Governor Curley as the "artificial candidate for Governor Hurley."

• • •

Governor Hurley's principal attack today was on former Governor Curley in reply to Curley's criticism of the governor's war record as that of service in the Harvard radio school.

The governor said:

"He would know, if he ever had worn the uniform that soldiers and sailors are subject to the orders of their superiors. He will, of course, never possess an honorable discharge. That may explain his ignorance but will never excuse the impropriety of his utterance."

• • •

Endorsement of Curley by Edward F. McLaughlin, former Boston fire commissioner and recently friendly with Governor Hurley, caused no end of discussion in political circles today. Announcing the Curley candidacy Mr. Laughlin said in part:

"The party is on the verge of destruction. For two years it has been devoid of party loyalty. We cannot hope for party success with its undeserved continuance."

A stirring fight for [illegible] in the Fifth Ward Democratic Committee in the West End got underway today in behalf of John F. Cronin, candidate for re-election to the committee. Cronin's campaign manager is Judge John P. Higgins, while the latter served as Governor Curley's campaign manager in many fights as secretary will be opened a special office here with Dan Healy as committeeman. The club meets Sunday afternoon.

Republican candidates for Governor Saltonstall and Lieutenant Governor Cole today continued their battle for nomination aims, but separate lines. Kleig Lights Call Mary Pickford

Mary Pickford is thinking of going back into pictures.

Greeted by hundreds of older movie fans to whom she is still America's Sweetheart," Miss Pickford arrived at South Station from New York today.

Asked whether she had any plans to return to picture work Miss Pickford said:

"I think I will. It depends upon material. However, I don't want to produce any more pictures. It is too much trouble to be before the camera and behind the camera at the same time."

She would like she said, to play parts now like Fay Bainter had in "White Banners."

Miss Pickford went from South Station to City Hall to present a letter to Mayor Tobin from the American Legion post of the 144th Field Artillery of which she is godmother and honorary comdr.

Of her new husband Buddy Rogers, she said smiling:

"I'm just a band leader's widow."

Miss Pickford doesn't like the new hair do, she said.

"It makes women look five years older," she remarked, "and it makes them look like they were just about to wash their necks."

She heartily detests the curling-vine type she believed to add years also the 50 per cent male.

Miss Pickford said that she expects to see Hollywood some time next month but is correct with her own concert but in connection with a new "discovery" he business manager has made a 16-year-old girl.

"She's not a second Shirley Temple, but I'm told she has a great deal of talent," Miss Pickford said. "No, I'm not revealing her identity yet. I haven't seen her myself.

Miss Pickford was in Boston to lecture on cosmetics at a department store. She hopes to open her own cosmetic business. She was to fly back to New York tonight, weather permitting.

Real Estate Tax Racket Probed

Bribery charges involving an alleged conspiracy to defraud property owners through promises to obtain abatements of their real estate taxes were ordered investigated by Judge Frederick W. Fosdick, Suffolk superior criminal court today.

Judge Fosdick ordered the district attorney's office to investigate. This is highly unusual—for the court to order the district attorney's office to make an investigation, and was taken as indicative of the seriousness with which Judge Fosdick regards the alleged racket conspiracy.

Judge Fosdick himself it was learned has been investigating the charges since Monday, using agents of the probation department of the superior court as his investigators.

GETS 3 MONTHS' TERM

It was on the basis of their report to him that he ordered Assistant District Attorney James T. Cosgrove today to have an inquiry instituted in the district attorney's office.

Specific in the indictment alleged to grow out of this high-powered racket before Judge Fosdick on [illegible] was heard.

The case involves John Aniello, the "Lupo street" North End who was sentenced to three months in the house of correction in the lower [illegible] on a charge of larceny of $125.

Assistant Judge Fosdick was informed [illegible] go between for a Revere lawyer, now in Malden and a group of North End property owners.

The lawyer was introduced to the latter's counsel group by Aniello. Judge Fosdick was told and after some conferring told them he could do nothing in the assessing department of the city. Instead [illegible] abatements of their taxes.

SAYS $125 RETURNED

Meetings were held, according to information said to be in the court's possession, in a downtown hotel not far from City Hall and money was passed in the hotel lobby.

The property owners however Judge Fosdick was told did not receive their promised tax abatements.

Aniello, it was explained to the court became involved in the larceny charges against him when the property owners "squawked." The lawyer, Judge Fosdick was informed gave the $125 to Aniello to be returned to the "squawking" property owners. But Aniello, it is supposed, failed to do so.

Malden Banker Says Deal On 'Hop to Utopia'

The Roosevelt administration was indirectly referred to as a "hop, step, flight from reality to Utopia" today by A. George Gilman, president of the Malden Savings Bank. He addressed the opening session of the 20th annual convention of Massachusetts savings bankers at the New Ocean House, Swampscott.

More than 1000 bank officials heard Gilman warn there is a great tendency to turn over business problems to the federal government. He added:

"There are those who believe it is still possible to make a non-stop flight from reality to Utopia. That is not the savings bank way. Mutual savings banks teach that success comes through thrift and self-reliance."

Other speakers included William P. Hustaford, Jr., state commissioner of banks; D. Raymond Leslie Buell, president of the Foreign Policy Association and Bowerton, New York congressman.

Governor Hurley will speak at the banquet tonight.

NEW CZECH BATTLE ON; 40 DEAD

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent Copyright, 1938.

CARLSBAD, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 15—The Sudeten Germans welcomed the news of Prime Minister Chamberlain's visit to Hitler today by resuming their attacks on Czech military police and gendarmes with such ferocity that 40 persons have been estimated killed and 200 wounded since the Fuehrer described the Sudetens as a "hunted, persecuted people."

(Editor's Note—Casualty estimates in Prague placed the dead and wounded at an even higher figure.)

Encouraged by Konrad Henlein's proclamation today that the Sudeten demand nothing less than union with the Nazi Reich the Sudeten population, living behind Red Line, half a dozen sleepy villages and towns are battlefields.

His First Hop To Save World

LONDON, Sept. 15—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain was in Germany today, bound for a dramatic visit with Chancellor Hitler. On the outcome depends the peace of the world.

Clad in a dark overcoat and clutching the umbrella he never leaves behind, England's envoy took off from Heston airport at 8:35 a.m. (2:35 a.m. E.D.T.) in a Lockheed plane. It was his first plane trip.

Ahead of him were the prospects of rain and fog over parts of France and Germany — and also the fateful result of a momentous parley in which he hoped to come to some amicable settlement of the Sudeten crisis.

3 PRIME OBJECTIVES

"I am going to see the German chancellor because the situation seems to me to be one in which discussions between him and me may have useful consequences," he said before he left.

"The Fuehrer's reply to my suggestion encourages me to hope that my visit to him will not be without results."

Chamberlain's hurried flight had a threefold purpose:

To get Hitler's help in preventing the spread of the Czech revolt to other parts of Europe.

To reopen negotiations broken off between the Czechs and Konrad Henlein, Sudeten leader.

To assure Hitler that England must fight if France is endangered.

Chamberlain's decision to fly to Germany was hailed by the British press and French government officials. It was the youthful idea of the British press which evolved in amicable fashion and Germany itself.

It was reported in some quarters that U.S. Ambassador Kennedy had told Chamberlain. After a week's wide-ban more support.

Although in preparation for his meeting with Der Fuehrer Chamberlain studied state papers and discussed with his foreign office and other government advisers the wide peace proposals he expects to lay before Hitler in the latter's mountain retreat.

Some of these proposals already have been outlined to German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop by British Ambassador Sir Nevile Henderson.

It was learned, however, that Chamberlain hoped to put more the conversation with Hitler on a strictly personal basis.

It was believed the prime minister would offer Hitler certain concessions to enable Germany to let the Czech problem into a quiet political arena, similar to the proposed European [illegible] now [illegible].

KING HASTENS BACK

It was admitted, however, that Hitler would certainly drive a hard bargain and that more than a week would be needed to settle it.

Regarding the Czech issue, Chamberlain was expected to propose a two-stage solution partial withdrawal along Swiss national lines and after a period of [illegible] to [illegible] complete [illegible].

Under a special police guard the British premier slipped from his 11 Downing street residence at 7 a.m. It had been reported Communists planned a demonstration against his trip.

Almost simultaneous with Chamberlain's departure was the arrival of King George at Euston station from Balmoral Scotland. He had cut short a vacation because of the crisis. There was no time for conversation between the premier and the King.

Duce Denies Hitler Wants Czechs

ROME, Sept. 15 (AP)—Premier Mussolini was given today that Hitler would not take the Czech point of view [illegible] as a gift.

This was reported by some [illegible] as an indication [illegible] Germany [illegible] the Czech [illegible] of their new frontiers [illegible] Sudeten German areas.

The assurance was [illegible] an open letter to Viscount Rothermere [illegible] published in Paris Mussolini [illegible] Paris Soir [illegible] have been written by Mussolini himself.

The letter was given a semi-official [illegible] when it was [illegible] to a [illegible] correspondent.

Ship Risk Rate Faces Boost

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (AP)—Higher marine insurance rates were in prospect today because of the European situation.

The existing rates were suspended by American underwriters yesterday as their concern over the possibility of conflict in Europe increased.

British underwriters met yesterday at Lloyds in London to consider a proposal to insert a clause in all marine insurance "free of capture and seizure" which excludes all war perils.

American underwriters have taken no action on the insertion of such clauses, but it was said at insurance offices that the clauses would be inserted immediately in the event of war.

Sonja Henie Film at Keith's

Tantalizing contrast to New England's balmy Indian summer are the snow-tipped Swiss Alps which Twentieth Century-Fox is serving up as background for Sonja Henie in her newest release, "My Lucky Star," opening on the Keith Memorial screen.

Co-starred with the dynamic little ice maiden is Richard Greene. Sonja plays a role of Corsican American campus. In the story's climactic carnival Sonja is so sensational that a picture magazine publishes her photograph on its cover. At Dartmouth, George Sonja has been modeling Caesar Romero's sweater sports clothes. Romero's movie-mad wife creates a newspaper scandal between him and Sonja by forging the latter's resignation from school. Roy Del Ruth directed.

Goldwyn Will Bring Olivier Back to Films

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 15 I don't know what persuasion Samuel Goldwyn used, but Lawrence Olivier, English actor, is coming here to co-star with Merle Oberon in "Wuthering Heights."

Olivier whose resemblance to Ronald Colman was so widely commented on a few years ago will pick up where he left off as one of the American screen's favorites. He sailed away with a peeve against Hollywood because of a Greta Garbo picture which was promised him and given to Jack Gilbert.

Louella O. Parsons

Just at cut the time Olivier arrives in town, a very good friend of his and a fellow Britisher, Vivian Leigh is expected to check in at Paramount for an important role in Cecil B. Mille's Union Pacific. The Leigh girl is the cute little trick who won such favorable comment in "Fire Over England."

Alexander Korda came into town so quietly that few people knew he was here for a United Artists powwow. The meeting was held secretly in Sam Goldwyn's office on Tuesday, with Mary Pickford in attendance. Mary and Buddy Rogers left immediately for New York where they expect to make their permanent home.

Before returning a few weeks to direct a number of important pictures at Fox, Alice Faye is to appear in a U A picture which now finds Shirley Ross, Gilbert Dodd, Sidney Walter Wanger and Walter Wanger.

Charles B. Howard Lyon, Cologne, who I met years ago when he was in the country here for a few days, is the guest of honor at a party given by Mrs. Lyon's father, Ambassador Joseph E. Davies, at the Ambassador Hotel in Washington, D. C. Lyon is a flying Army officer but that hasn't stopped him from being a polo player. He was in the Olympic polo matches in Berlin.

Stephen Slesinger, publisher of big books in little volumes for children, is in town. He is negotiating for the sale of the movie rights to Zane Grey's current, "King of the Royal Mounted" and he says he has a deal on for the sale of Major Hoopla as other comic material for Warner Brothers.

A Line or Two: Frank Borzage, one of our best directors, and Lucien Hubbard, one of Hollywood's best writers, will be paired in England for their next picture. Borzage will direct and Hubbard will write the screen play. Both left by plane for London.

SNAP-SHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Gertrude Lawrence, Lynn Fontanne and Noel Coward today announced their engagement. Wendy Barrie and Lee Bowman star gazing at Gallen Park plantation. Mrs. Jack Whitney and Cesar Romero in intimate seats listening to Margaret Booth sing. Hal and the elder Margaret at the La Conga for the first time and Hal never had a preview that made him so nervous. Lana Turner forgetting her school work and going back to her former boy friend, Greg Bautzer.

George Cukor helped Claudette Colbert celebrate her birthday by ordering a big cake sent to the set; Jeanette MacDonald wore her hair piled high for the "If I Were King" picture and then couldn't wear any of her hats. Gail Patrick and Bob Cobb will have that long delayed honeymoon in New York next month. Cary Trevor's and Clark Andrews' first guest in their new house was Jane Withers. Rosalind Russell lands in New York October 23 and heads straight for Hollywood. Fay Bainter says it isn't true she is an invalid. She has been working every day and hasn't had time to be sick.

Ingrid Bergman is having seeing Gertrude Lawrence every day after he finishes work but that doesn't mean their romance is on. They are just good friends. Joan Davis, Mary Lee Weaver and Jack Haley got a free trip to San Francisco for the opening of Hall Bat Co. Oliver Hardy's wife has been very ill at work. Has four weeks' work ahead.

DEAF IN BOTH EARS

The Editor Says:—The isolation of America from European entanglements is one of the surest means of steadying the rest of the world.

The minute we enter the European swamp we shall sink to the level of the most barbaric nation over there or in Asia.

Guglielmo Ferrero, the foremost historian of Europe, in an exclusive article for the Hearst Newspapers recently revealed how we can preserve civilization in the following words:

"It is necessary that America shall become the great reservoir of capital needed for development of the world, the guardian of liberal and democratic ideas and the home of intellectual culture.

"America has everything she needs for upholding western civilization in spite of all catastrophies which may befall Europe."

Against the spirit of intolerance, violence, persecution and war, now rampant in Europe, we must raise a bulwark of TOLERANCE, LAW and DEFENSIVE PEACE.

To enter a European war means the destruction of all our material and physical treasures.

Let us guard them at least as carefully as we guard our gold reserves at Fort Knox. They are, indeed, a thousand times more precious to us as a nation than all the gold in the world.

America is founded on the rock of ORDER and LIBERTY—

"And the rain descended and the floods came and the winds blew and beat upon that house; and it fell not: for it was FOUNDED ON A ROCK."

A STARTLING revelation, which should cause the utmost concern, is the fact made known by federal officials that the relief rolls are steadily GROWING while the national income is steadily CLIMBING.

This reverses all normal and sane expectations.

Surely better conditions in the country reduce the NECESSITY for relief, and certainly they ought to reduce EXPENDITURES for relief.

The national income for the present year, according to Department of Commerce estimate, will be 64 billion dollars, second highest since 1929.

Works Progress Administration enrollment increased 25,000 in the week ended August 27, to a new high of 3,066,953.

Some pretty ominous facts were subjected to wide discussion at the annual meeting of the Government Research Association at Princeton University the other day.

Director Nels Anderson of the WPA labor relations section, defending present federal relief spending, said:

"It has become rooted in the economic tissue of the nation and it will not be uprooted very easily. IT IS HERE TO STAY."

Norman MacDonald, director of the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers' Associations, said Mr. Anderson's declaration was:

"An official enunciation for the first time of a new American philosophy indicating the wide chasm existing between a conception of relief which is designed to provide food, shelter and clothing for the people who are unable to provide, and one which looks toward permanent assimilation into our system of government of a large section of the population to be supported by a means, not yet announced."

For a further background and explanation, however, the people must inevitably turn to POLITICS.

For as Senator Harrison of Mississippi said recently, "there are thousands on the WPA rolls that have no business there," and everybody knows POLITICS KEEPS THEM THERE.

All of which tends to raise this question:

Is it an actual and necessary system of relief that is being "rooted in the economic tissue of the nation," or is it a powerful political instrument for the convenience and selfish USE OF POLITICIANS and their PERPETUATION IN PUBLIC OFFICE?

The Human Side of the News

Business Studies Public Opinion

By EDWIN C. HILL

(Copyright, 1938, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

THE WORLD has wagged along considerably since the days when Archbold was advising the Standard Oil Company to buy some good news agency, like the Associated Press.

Big business seems to be developing realization of responsibility to the public. Typical of new corporate leanings and attitudes is the address of Arthur W. Page, vice-president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., at the International Management Congress in Washington.

HIS interest was substantially that of Archbold, 30 or more years ago: how big business was to meet hostile and possibly misinformed public opinion—and his subject was "Fundamentals of a Public Relations Commission."

A comparison of Mr. Archbold's statement before a Senate committee and Mr. Page's today gives ground for encouragement.

"The less confidence the public has in big business," said Mr. Page, "the less freedom the public will give big business. And as you restrict its freedom, you restrict its ability to serve.

"It is, therefore, to the interests of both that there be established a state of confidence concerning the relations between big business and the public.

"Big business has to meet the political test. The political test comes down to this: If the reputation of big business is good enough with the public and one representing the public, whether in press, politics or any other capacity, will be hostile to it.

"Because of the ordinary human reactions of size, big business will be closely scrutinized. It will have to be a better citizen than if it were smaller. It will have to be good enough to have public confidence."

ARTHUR W. PAGE ADVISES BUSINESS
Telephone Executive Stresses Confidence

THERE now arises the possibility that big business may act as a brake even on a well-behaved system and if that goes far enough the actual independence of the individual citizen may become less and less important.

That might go far to explain the government ire which has swung between complacency toward monopoly and a tendency to regard anything more imposing than a peanut stand as essentially suspect, if not actually criminal. And here too there is ground for hope. This monopoly study now going at Washington is unique in several details. Senator O'Mahoney, of Wyoming its originator and sponsor insisted that the inquiry would be an objective study and not a new drive on big business.

One may keep at least a couple of fingers crossed, but along come Messrs. Arthur Page, Jr., and Thurman Arnold and make some rather surprising statements for men of their New Deal backgrounds and associations.

Participating in the inquiry, laws are big business is not necessarily bad just because it is big, and they admit Congress a bit but they don't know about the problem of keeping the economy of large-scale operation and at the same time safeguarding private rights and liberties.

This unemotional and rational consideration of what we don't know and what we ought to know is, to this bystander, a hopeful sign.

'Bugs' Baer Says:

THERE was a time when the dance meant one of three things: 1. The spontaneous activity of the muscles under the influence of some strong emotion such as social joy or extemporaneous exultation. 2. Definite combinations of graceful movements performed for the sake of the pleasure which the exercise affords the dancer or the spectator. 3. Carefully trained movements to illustrate a graphic portrayal of the emotions and actions of others.

BUT if you think the shaggeroo and the swingola are new just pin back the everloving ears and inhale: In ancient Tigre the old reliable Abyssinians dance with chassee step in a circle, keeping the tempo by shrugging the shoulders and working their elbows backward and forward.

THE Kukis of Assam do an awkward hop with the knees bent low. The tribal dance of the Kamchadale is violent, with every muscle quivering like an old car on a hill. The Andamans hop and swing. The Vellalas jump with both feet, slapping their bodies with their hands.

PUT them all together and you're collegiate.

Men Often Claim Laurels as Chefs

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc., and International News Service.)

EVERY HUSBAND should cook dinner at least once a week argues Miss Gladys M. Unger, dietitian at New York University, in announcing a course in cooking for men only.

"Men are often better cooks than women and they should be," Miss Unger says. "As a man has a more scientific mind than a woman he has naturally a more natural mechanical ability and to him preparation of the evening meal is as much as of a challenge to his ability as building a boat."

In the main we agree with Miss Unger's proposition, especially about the boat. That is the way Mr. Jack Kearns used to cook—like he was building a boat. We mention Mr. Kearns because he is one fellow who always thought, and probably still thinks, that he could cook better than any woman that ever lived.

ANYTIME Mr. Kearns found a kitchen with plenty of cooking sherry on hand, he felt an irresistable impulse to cook. If there was no cooking sherry, a little straight rye would answer.

Mr. Kearns would put the sherry, or rye, as the case might be, not in his cooking, but in himself, because he contended that this was the fundamental principle of all his recipes.

Anyway, Mr. Kearns claimed that his masterpiece in cuisine was what is known as a Mulligan stew, a Mulligan stew being a savory concoction that is said to have sprung from the old-time hobo jungles or roadside camps of the patrons of the brakebeams.

The various hoboes would canvass the surrounding landscape, mooching or stealing whatever they could in the way of victuals, and all this stuff would be thrown into a common pot in the camp and stewed up into a Mulligan. There is no set, simple receipt for a Mulligan and that is, you put in everything you can find.

Our only criticism of Mr. Kearn's Mulligans was that he would sometimes put a little more than everything into them.

Another fellow we know who thinks well of himself as a cook is Walter W. Naughton, of Los Angeles, a newspaper person known to intimates as "Blubber."

Mr. Naughton, a large, stout party, thinks he is the greatest spaghetti cooker alive. He notifies his chosen guests of the date of his spaghetti throwing three days in advance.

NO ONE is permitted on the Naughton premises during the period of "Blubber's" culinary gestation, and when the fateful day of the banquet arrives, the first on hand is always Doc Harry Martin with a full kit of medicines and tools, because he knows that business is going to be swell for him.

It is whispered in Los Angeles that while Doc Harry Martin does not assist in the Naughton cooking he surely encourages it and some claim he pays "Blubber" a percentage on the day's trade, though this is probably just talk.

THESE Modern Men

Perhaps you'd be surprised to know what's hurting them most.

Tisn't market crashes. Tisn't strikes. Or all these new taxes. Or even the war menace.

It's something harder to take. Something tougher to stand. Something that gives them a bigger headache, trying to figure it out.

HIS THE SPOT THESE MODERN WOMEN HAVE PUT THEM ON

Hitherto, men didn't have to worry about spots. They earned all there were. 'N' strutted their stuff when and where they pleased without any back-sass from mere females.

Not that they were particularly proud about it. Most of our History Tradition I honestly believe, has been deliberately manufactured by the guy themselves. As a Master Man is largely overrated. Leave the average male to be and he's lazy, too lazy and stupid to be cruel.

What roughly speaking, was the man's status before the Emancipation? Just come to life and opened everything. Up to that time Eve was Boss and he was her property.

• • •

THEN all of a sudden she got the crazy notion of working, same as he did. Earning money. Voting, too. And Heaven knows what else. HOW COME and WHY HER? And hours of hassles, culminating in divorce and alimony, are still being got out of it.

For when a woman starts after the Boss Guy's hunk of dough, she's out to get that. It is supposed to be an equal.

But what's a chap to do when a lady can hold a job and earn as much as he does?

And where I ask you is the world going when males are scared, are pussy-whipped and can't even be the head?

And you've got to prove that you're the Answer To A Maiden's Prayer with something more than an Adam's Apple and a dash of lay-talk!

Which is the reason, in case you've wondered, for that baffled sobbing you've heard on your neighbor's sawn friend 2:45 a.m. Dew merely the Mrs. asking the Master what he knows is always way. Which is certainly a hard question for any Mamma Pet to have to tackle at any time of day.

NO KIDDING even as a female I can see that it isn't such fun. Just look at an average girl's Suppose you've been given the Proverbial Stork over Sis's Mama Hall or you're to Father, without ever being required to furnish the slightest other proof that you were entitled thereto. And suddenly Lady's going coffee 'n' pounds of Female Fury and proceeds with at last trying to make you look like Jezebel the Apprehendent from Wango Wango Land. How'd you like it?

YOU WOULDN'T LIKE IT AND YOU'D SAY SO. EVEN IF SHE SUPPORTED YOU AND YOUR FIVE KIDS AND PAID OFF THE MORTGAGE TO BOOT.

And what would you do? You'd do exactly what 9,783,256 Mad Papas are doing right now—

You'd peeve 'n' pout—
And grouch and growl—
And throw a fit—
And stay in it—
Until you learned—
That this is 1938—
And sex is no longer
A treat or an alibi—
So you'd better qualify—

PATROLMAN WILLIAM B. DOOLEY HEADS BOSTON'S "MOUNTIES"
Force of 19 Constitutes Powerful Arm of Police Department

Girl About Town

by Marjorie McBride

BOSTON MOUNTED POLICE don't make the headlines as often as their Canadian brothers and their uniforms aren't as elegant but they have their traditions.

The 19 members under the command of Patrolman William B. Dooley are trusty and former cavalrymen. They constitute a powerful arm of the police department. Assignments range from leading parades to stopping runs. Patrolling traffic is their regular job.

Each of the Bobbies must be an expert horseman. He's often stationed "Outside" where he's on call at all hours. Besides, he must be able to shoe his mount, groom it, feed it, keep its quarters clean and, in short, be a combination cowboy and stable boy.

• • •

THE Force and the average American have the notion that the mission of a mounted policeman is to protect his country and its people from danger. Not so.

It's interesting, but records show that the typical police emergency is perhaps a fractured skull, a pocketful of jewelry or a few dollars in pennies.

Any 12 pounds of coffee, 12 pounds of sugar, 177 pounds of white flour, 112 pounds of fresh fruit, 16 dozen eggs and 50 pounds of milk every year.

That adds up to over a ton of food and you'd never guess just how much that costs, would you? Whipped cream, girls.

Problem of Yellow Fever Unsettled

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

[illegible] a few months ago when Dr. Vital Brazil [illegible] a popular magazine that we [illegible] the popular name of a new [illegible] of yellow fever.

We had thought for this was a [illegible] that was [illegible] away with a [illegible] and the danger avoided. But [illegible] Brazil [illegible] that [illegible] tropics [illegible] by other things than the mosquito.

One of the interesting things about the idea that yellow fever could be carried by the tropical species from the jungles of South America to a tropical city.

To understand the modern yellow fever problem we must first note that there are two types of the disease now primarily recognized. One is the ordinary type of town and city epidemics of port towns and carried by the species of mosquito known as Aedes aegypti, and the jungle or sylvan fever, borne by the Aedes aegypti now present in some parts of South America.

In South America the principal ports do not have yellow fever at present. Brazil is an example of a country where extra efforts are being made to keep the seaports free of all forms of mosquitoes. The yellow fever of Brazil is the jungle type [illegible] monkeys [illegible] passes [illegible] being [illegible] Aedes [illegible] are suspected of [illegible] natural reservoir [illegible]

Considering the [illegible] as a whole and [illegible] literally [illegible] stated [illegible] with [illegible] fever [illegible] species of mosquitoes that [illegible] existed here and were become infected by an imported [illegible] case arriving as a new [illegible] vector for the spread of yellow fever in this country. [illegible] cases of yellow fever [illegible] human cases infected with [illegible] but arriving here [illegible] the [illegible] period [illegible]

On the assumption that yellow fever is most likely to be introduced into the United States by airplanes the one great protective measure that can be applied is to make all of our southern ports of arrival free of the Aedes aegypti.

In such an Aedes-free port granted that an infected mosquito were landed and that it bit and infected one or more persons who subsequently developed yellow fever, there would be no mosquito vector to pass on the virus to other individuals and thus start an epidemic. Fumingation of arriving airplanes to prevent introduction of infected mosquitoes is the measure of choice.

Must Engaged Girl Go Into Seclusion?

BY BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

The morning's mail has brought a controversial letter from a girl of 22. She says the reason that her fiance, who is 30, is so fussy about her working in an office or receiving even civilities from other men is that he's already had his fling.

BINDING AS MARRIAGE?

BACK OUT GRACEFULLY

[illegible]

But today if we find ourselves engaged to the wrong person we may [illegible] of it as gracefully as possible.

I don't know whether the man of whom my correspondent writes has had his fling or not. But the chances of life when they do settle down are inclined to be more straight-laced than those with less experience. A man who objects to a girl having dinner with a group of fellow employes or being seen home safely by another is patently a good deal of an Othello.

Imagine the figure that a miss of 22 would cut in returning a wedding check to the head of the firm with fourteen others took with thanks. Decidedly, she would be [illegible] some sort of Frankie and Johnny business, which would make her seem rather ridiculous. If these two young people marry eventually there'll have to be considerable adjustment in their different points of view if they want to be happy.

Jane Lee Makes Debut

By BETTY ALDEN

ANYTHING can happen over a tea cup . . . Yesterday Jane Lee and Janet Pierce reperfected the old saying about east being east, and west west, and never the twain shall meet . . . for Jane is just back from a motor trip to the West coast and national parks . . . Janet had just hopped off the boat from a summer vacation in Europe . . and each was bubbling over with stories of their interesting experiences as they met at Jane's coming out party at the Ritz Carlton . . So east merged with west in the conversation . . .

Jane was an exceedingly attractive hostess . . . her blonde hair and fair complexion accentuated with a stunning black taffeta dirndl which was trimmed with bands of fine pleating . . . She also wore a skunk bolero and a tiny hat trimmed with varicolored bows . . . Her mother, Mrs Charles Lee, stood with her in the receiving line, which was flanked by tall wrought-iron candleabras and huge vases of pink roses . . .

Janet Pierce was as pretty as a picture as she was greeted by every one and welcomed home . . . Her tea blue wool frock was embroidered with small wine figures to match her veiled wine turban . . . Another stunning blonde present was Hope Halsey, who wore the same color combination as Janet . .

Incidentally the escorts at this year's deb parties will have a problem picking and choosing the prettiest girls . . . for there are ever so many candidates for darlings on the starting line . . . Janet and Hope are among the tops, to say nothing of Leila Ernst and Virginia Shrigley, both vivacious blondes . . as well as Anne Godfrey, a petite brunette with an engaging smile and deep dimples . . . And Anne Musgrave, who is certain to get a rush from the studs at her dance this evening, but who unfortunately will be out of circulation most of the season for she is entering South College next week and will only be home for holidays . .

Novel Table Decorations at Deb's Party

ANNE GODFREY found her name on one of the attractive little place cards made of match boxes, and smile across the novel table decorations at Anne Sweeney, Lucia Fernald and Hesme Harlow who sat together . . . The guests didn't have to reach very far for a cigarette between courses . . because the smokes formed part of the decorations . . . huge pineapples were scooped out and filled with brilliant asters, while cigarettes were stuck in the outside skin with toothpicks . . Mrs Arthur Beale arranged the tables in a half moon shape and joining each was a garland of ferns . . . Prudence Wellman and Louise Rice came up from the North Shore together and other guests included Nancy Bertelson, Susan Rabbeck, Frances Walker, Nancy Nowell and Nancy McNeil . . .

. . seen about the shops . . Mrs Lewis Curtis outfitting her son Bob for Groton, for school, and treating mom to luncheon at the Ritz between fittings . . . Nancy Simons looking for attractive sweaters and blouses to gather in the rates of two dressed among her classmates at Bennett Junior College . . . Nancy seems to be rather delighted with her choice of the quiet, elegant year ahead of her with the world she had last winter as a real season's most vivacious and popular debutante . . .

Philomatheia Seniors Flock To Style Show

A parade of swanky fur fashions and the prospect of an early autumn reunion with club members lured many Senior Philomatheians to the clubhouse yesterday for bridge and tea in aid of scholarship fund.

Directing the affair was a parade of energetic executive board members. Mrs Edmund L. Grimes of Chestnut Hill, who's just returned from Bermuda; Josephine Hartigan of Brighton, Mrs James Carr of Jamaica Plain and Mrs. Mary O'Leary, Emerson of Newton.

Mrs Vincent P. Roberts club president, stepped up from her North Scituate home. Her smart cream and white print ensemble was topped by a wide brimmed hat of brown crepe.

Escorted Mrs Daniel Holland of Jamaica Plain was as usual with her attractive hair. Her navy blue frock accented with soft pink lingerie touches and Mrs Benjamin McCarthy, who's back with a gleaming head with her fall recipe.

From Westfield came Mrs. Charles Weston smartly-gotten in wine red woolen suit, while Mrs Joseph P. Brennan, her dark frock tastefully printed in floral design, entertained a group of friends.

Boston After Dark

BY GEORGE HOLLAND

TWENTY MINUTES OF EXPERT showmanship—Sophie Tucker presiding—launched the new nightclub season last night at the Mayfair . . . Sophie is a bit wider and rounder than she was on her previous appearance . . . If anything, the new inches of her girth add to her tremendous force as an entertainer . . . She had the customers safely cupped in the palm of her hands from her boisterous entrance to her sentimental exit . . .

GEORGE HOLLAND

Miss Tucker relinquished the microphone to the strains of the song she made famous (although she claims it made her famous) "Some of These Days" . . . She uses a lyrical introduction to her singing of "Some of These Days" this time, and addresses her eulogy of the time-honored torch-song to a tattered piano copy of the number . . . It is extremely effective . . . Sophie's routine of songs is chosen with the same care and sense of values which has marked her career . . .

You will enjoy her dramatic rendition of "Your Broadway and Mine," a song she sang in "Broadway Melody," and her airy wail of the trials and temptations of a private secretary on a week-end . . . To Cuba.

As is generally known, Miss Tucker is a native Bostonian. . . . Supporting her stellar performance at the Mayfair is another Bostonian, a young man named Marc Vallero. . . . How Vallero has escaped the attention of your correspondent until now is one of those things which is difficult to explain . . . He is the best most versatile ballroom I have heard . . .

His material is perfect, and the range of his talent goes from Arliss to Butterworth, with Fred Allen, Joe E. Brown, Bing Crosby, Lionel Barrymore, Al Jolson, Ted Lewis, Edward G. Robinson and Lionel Stander thrown in.

Vallero is uncanny. A freak talent that he does not, as yet, fully realize that one is inclined to react out for such a word as genius to describe him. . . . George Lyles, who stages the Mayfair's chorus evolutions, has risen to the occasion with some unusual effects. . . . His girls prance through a symbolic set of capers called "Newsreel of the Dance," or some such thing, and I guess never did anything. . . . The ropes will be out at the Mayfair for the balance of the week and Saturday-night revelers best make their reservations early.

Once Over Lightly:

The Trocadero swung open its doors last night, with a Ben Ford revue . . . Miss Debbie De Vye, a Brighton girl, sang and danced and was quite the hit of the show . . . A human interest note attached to her premiere was the presence at a ringside table of her grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Ryan, and her mother, Mrs. Katherine De Vye . . .

Dan Lyne, the distinguished lawyer, sums it all up this way: "The world has gone Barnum and Bailey." Eva La Gallienne is Madame Capet, Eddie Dowling's impending production will play Boston probably after the Philadelphia break-in, and before its Broadway premiere. . . . Mickey Alpert is in town. The boatel band singer closed last Saturday at Mayfair Farms, New York . . . Bill Hardy and his orchestra will open the Flamingo room September 22 . . .

Al Somerby of Lexington, popular host of the Old Howard and London Square Theaters nitelights with Mrs. Somerby and their lovely daughter, Shirley . . . Dad is a trouper, too, now starring Miss Somerby . . . One of the political aspirants has been labelled by the opposition "Successful."

Vincent Lopez will introduce a new tune, "Siesta Para Toot," at the Ritz Roof tonight . . . Translated from the Scandinavian, "Siesta Para Toot" means "the last couple out" . . . In Sweden, it's a dance, comparable to the late and unlamented "Big Apple" . . . Ralph "Babe" Rubinstein, the race track announcer, has been made deputy sheriff of New Haven County, and Dave Walker has presented Connecticut's newest copper a whistle to go with his badge . . .

Peter A. Cetella of Lancaster Place has entered the race for a councilmanic berth on the November ballot. He is opposed by Peter A. Murray.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Hopkins, Jr., of South Boston celebrated their 10th wedding anniversary in New York.

Boston now has a check-cashing service, on the New York plan. Billy Kahn is the proprietor. He just opened. Chambers street. Payroll checks and the like are processed for cash when proper identification is made. . . . Business has been pretty much a jack rabbit, and only two pieces of paper turned over in the first month of business. The same fellow passed them both. . . .

Cambridge Clue Sought to N. H. 'Hoax Suicide'

Investigating what they said was a weird hoax suicide at Hanover, N. H., police of two states were tracing a Cambridge clue today.

They sought a mysterious missing Hanover husband and father whose shoes were found on a drifting rowboat three miles down the Connecticut river.

Police Chief Dennis J. Hanson of Hanover announced today he did not believe the mysterious Edward Chesley, 36, was a drowning victim.

HUNT FOR SISTER

With collaboration of Massachusetts authorities, the search of deserted to find Chesley's estranged sister, reported to be a Cambridge resident.

A postcard, supposedly mailed by her to Chesley, was in one of the shoes in the rowboat, police said.

Chesley had been estranged from his wife and a divorce action was pending, according to Chief Hanley.

The chief also said he had reason to believe Chesley had been treading a term of jury duty for which he had been drawn.

Chesley was last seen Sunday night, when he left the house on West street where he and his wife both lived in spite of their marriage estrangement.

COAT ALSO FOUND

The boat, with the shoes in it, was found yesterday morning at the wharf where it had been moored near Hanover, reported Chief Hanley, of a coat, owned by [illegible].

Hanover police said Chesley was a man of confident appearance, making good wages as a lineman in Lebanon.

He has three grown sons.

According to a description circulated throughout New England, he is five feet seven inches tall, weighs 125 pounds, with iron gray hair.

Austen Lake:

"Ah Me," or Coaching's Trend Toward Tact

MR. BULL LOWE, THE ARLINGTON selectman and that queer anomoly, the honest politician who amounts to a civic daddy, was talking about Richard Cresson Harlow. Not Dick Harlow of Harvard, but Dick Harlow when he was coaching Penn State. Mr. Lowe, for purposes of identification, used to unhook people's skeletons for Lafayette's old varsities in the time when you could hamstring from behind, hammer the brain centers or garrot your man without loss of yardage. Being distinctly old school in manly matters Mr. Lowe was lamenting the trend of coaching toward tactful subtlety instead of the brass-throated harangues of his old barbarian day.

AUSTEN LAKE

Yes sir, said Mr. Lowe, the screaming, ranting coach had gone along with football's cane shin-guards and canvas-corsets and now he challenged anybody to name him one who still cusses his players through a megaphone or spills any fascinating gems of profanity which survive as showerbath epigrams wherever old varsity 49ers come together for a beer and a biscuit. Did I remember Dick's masculine growl as he exhorted his Penn State primitives through the partitions of Lafayette's Field house? I did!

And now, in the ameliorating interim, Dick's methods of persuasion have moderated. His voice has hushed down to a lyric caress except for occasional exasperated papa-yipps like an indulgent parent dealing with offspring who won't eat their cereal. "The times have changed," said Mr. Lowe sadly, and now the college coaches no longer affect the more violent traits of a mountain preacher, bar bouncer and reform school warden. The old shellbacks like Percy Haughton, Major Frank Cavanaugh, Bob Folwell, and Foster Sanford, who always kept some lava and sulphur in the ends of their tongues, have passed into the limbo of forgotten things.

"AH, ME," SAID MR. LOWE. Harvard's old heroes, like Swede Nelson, Mal Logan, Eddie Casey, et al, still like to sniff Haughton's distant smoke and tell how P. D's screeches bounced about the stadium's colonnades, from pillar to pillar, until a thousand echoes of the original part of speech came cascoming back, each with an individual sting like the smack of a wet towel flicked against nude skin.

"Ah, me," said Mr Lowe. Major Cavanaugh, in his district attorney's rumble, had often punctuated his teachings with exhalations which even our modern publishers of stark, naked realism would blush to read in manuscript form. Cav had been a solid man.

"Ah, me," said Mr. Lowe. Foster Sanford of Rutgers—and there, my friends, was a rugged disciple of he-hardihood—was an accomplished hand at journeyman vituperation. His sulphurics are still remembered as models of that form of diction which psychiatrists say are really a healthy outlet for internal poisons. And when Foster screamed from the little scaffold whence he superintended daily scrimmage, Methodist mammas in the neighborhood shut their windows and shooed their children indoors, lest they suffer perforated eardrums.

But the prince, the imperial wizard of impolite persiflage said Mr Lowe, was Bob Folwell, Penn's ex-farm boy, who used to warm his larynx with a pre-practice round of expletives and stand before a clubhouse mirror to get just the right degree of lip-curl into his elocution. When Bob spoke, he employed more words than a mouthful of firecrackers and his curses had more lilt that were less shines than little flashes of lightning. And Mr Lowe wondered how was it that a docile, Christian gent as Columbus Leo Little could have graduated from Dick's school with Dick's cussing spirit and with the same fine ears.

NOT, CONFESSED MR. LOWE, THAT HE had ever known Dick Harlow to cuss his men even in the utmost heat of his spell-binding. The instance that he referred to was when Dick's voice began entreating his Penn State troglodytes between the halves, please, to quit playing kiss-the-pillow and get down to some plain osteopathic bone-crushing, and Dick's voice rose in a gradual crescendo from a whisper to a roar. So that even Bill Crowell, who was entreating the Lafayette team on the other side of the partition, stopped to listen to the mellifluous magic of Dick's talk. Did I remember, asked Mr. Lowe? I did!

Of course, agreed Mr. Lowe, the current ivy type of athlete lacks something of the hairy, barbaric quality of the slag-heap and coal mining types which somehow matriculated into the Lehigh Valley institutions of cultural learning during that earlier period. So maybe, if Harlow were to let down his hair and make one of those old fashioned spread-eagle speeches, he could not entice the Harvards to greater action than they give him now.

Well said Mr. Lowe, the old medicine show customs of football's 49ers need not reflect against a coach's present social and ethical standards. Times and types have changed. And the breed of boys in the Ivy institution are politer and don't require their teachings to be punctuated by a charge of rock salt fired in the region of their britches. And Mr. Lowe meditated on the one man mutiny of Oze Simmonds, Iowa's Negro star, who last year resigned from his team because his coach Ossie Solem, rebuked him mildly for some Saturday failures. In the old day, thought Mr. Lowe, no jury would have convicted a coach for firing the contents of his six shooter into a kid who did that and he suspected that Haughton or Cavanaugh or Sanford would have had the lad's hide nicely stretched for drying over the goal posts before one could say Robert Saltonstall. He knew, said Mr. Lowe, that Bob Folwell would.

Foot-Faults Stop Quist In Nationals

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 15 (INS)—Four thin-lasted [illegible] named Don Budge, Harry Hopman, Sidney Wood and Bitsy Grant today have entered the [illegible] lines of the quarter-final round of the national singles.

They joined [illegible] with Jack Bromwich, Gene Mako, Joe Hunt and Gilbert Hunt. The latter is unseeded and hails from Washington, D. C., who sprang the major surprise of the tennis year here two days ago when he reached this [illegible] by beating the country's No. 2 fellow Bobby Riggs.

The handsomest [illegible] Budge, [illegible] that made him the most dominating force that amateur tennis has ever known, beat big Charles Hare, the Englishman, 6—3, 6—4, 6—0, in a dull match that was marred by the schoolboyish imperfections of Hare's ground strokes.

Harry Hopman, the ever-playing captain of the Australian Davis Cup team, continued his somewhat sinister contradiction by not only playing but severely [illegible] Don McNeill, of Oklahoma City, the national indoor champion. Hopman, a frail soul in impeccable shorts, won, 6 4 6 3 7 5.

Bitsy Grant of Atlanta put [illegible] Adrian Quist, the Aussie Davis cupper, to reach the quarter-final notch. He did it 1 4 6 6 1 7 5 in a [illegible] match [illegible] Quist's [illegible] and the perpetual [illegible] crossed Quist's feet [illegible] finish.

Tiny Parker Looks Bad On Gabby's 'Home Run'

By WALTER KILEY

The daffiest National League pennant race since that to-be-forgotten affair of 1909 reaches the boiling point with the arrival tomorrow of the league-leading Pirates for a three-game series with the Bees.

Veterans of baseball are already comparing the present battle about as the wildest in that category of baseball ages which the Cubs lead the Giants by a mere percentage point and the Pirates are only a game and a half behind the Giants. Everybody knows the Bees are out of the race, but they have a couple of fellows who can pretend to be Cubs and Pirates.

The present campaign hasn't reached such a state. But strange things are developing so fast and furiously that only one of the four first division clubs must be given the edge.

Going into the final game of the series in which the Giants and Pirates [illegible] today, the Cubs [illegible] by only two percentage points over the Giants, who [illegible] Pirates [illegible] percentage points.

Pitt Backs Top Four Horsemen

By Associated Press

How about a little football dope, readers? . . . Notre Dame is in for one of its toughest seasons. I know 180 huskies reported for early practice and all that, but don't be surprised if the Irish drop five or six games.

Clemson should be plenty hot in the South. Jess Neely, who is doing a swell job down there, has a veteran line and no less than 20—count 'em—capable ball carriers. Teams on the Tiger sked had better hoist storm warnings . . . pay no attention to the howls Pooley Hubert is emitting at V. M. I. He'll have the best team in the Old Dominion.

Keep an eye on John Carlisle, a sophomore down at West Virginia. We're telling you now the guy is hot . . . also George Sturnweiss, North Carolina's ace quarterback, who probably will be the outstanding performer in the Southern Conference.

Pitt's starting backfield (that is, No. 1) should be better than Notre Dame's four horsemen of 14 years ago . . . Dartmouth is the crew to watch in the East, although Professor Lou Little at Columbia has a few tricks he hasn't pulled out of his hat yet . . . Correction. Instead of reporting overweight, as we chronicled recently, Marshall Goldberg, who carried the mail for Pitt, checked in weighing 184 six pounds less than he scaled last season.

★ ★ ★

Five members of Nebraska's starting seven hail from Lincoln, a city of 80,000 and home of the Cornhuskers. In fact, only four of the squad of 50 came from outside the state . . . Virginia Tech is thinking of changing the school colors to green and black—the former to represent the material and the latter because it's the most appropriate for mourning.

Florida is all set to go to town . . . In the southwest, it will be Rice and Texas Christian with several others threatening . . . The most publicized athlete in the Big Ten may be Fred Gage, a Wisconsin sophomore . . .

★ ★ ★

ODDS AND ENDS: Curly Lambeau, coach of the Green Bay Packers, is sending his son, Don, a 212-pound fullback, to Fordham . . . The Messrs. duPont are all smiles because at least 350,000 shells were used in the recent skeet championship . . . It now develops that young Taylor, who became director of athletics at the Ashland (Va.) high school at 21, succeeds George Dent, who was appointed to the same post at the ripe old age of 19.

Edmund Nouri traveled 9000 miles from Bagdad to become a substitute back for Georgetown . . . Don't sell the Duke football team short despite the mournful wails of Wallace Wade, who is tops in wailing.

Although the Red Sox train there the folks down in Sarasota, Fla., are rooting for the Reds because Paul Derringer is so popular with the natives. Incidentally, three or four major league clubs would like to move into Sarasota if the Sox ever leave.

Here's what happened to four guys on a Kitchener (Ont.) golf course: Bill Brickley, playing the 475-yard 15th hole, carded an eagle three. Lloyd Tucker, pro at the course, took the hole away from him with a double-eagle—two on a par-five hole. The other two members of the foursome pulled for birdies, but missed. Not bad for four guys named Joe, eh!

Glasgow Gets Crack at Brouillard

It will be Lou Brouillard, Worcester, vs. Jolting Joe Glasgow, Quincy, and Honey Mellody, Charlestown, vs. Al Nettlow, Chicago, in the two 10-round main bouts of the next Goodwin A. C. boxing show on Friday night, Sept. 23, at the Garden.

Matchmaker Rip Valenti today had announced this double-featured ring carnival.

Confident that none of the ambitious young fighters in this section can give him any trouble Brouillard risks his New England middleweight title against Glasgow.

"I can beat most of these kids with one hand tied behind my back," says Brouillard, who really looks fit and fine after a month of vigorous training work.

Brouillard looks every inch as capable as when he held the world's middleweight and welterweight crowns, although Larruping Lou has slowed down a trifle. But he can still hit like a sledge hammer and will rely upon his ruthless power punching to turn back the Glasgow challenge.

At that, Brouillard won't need much in the way of boxing skill against Glasgow, who isn't too familiar with the scientific intricacies of boxing, but who is one of the sturdiest punchers hereabbouts. Jolting Joe will go in to slug it out with Brouillard and an old-fashioned free-swinging battle is in view with a k. o. finish more than likely.

Nettlow, from the Catholic Youth Organization "stable" which also produced Max Marek, will be remembered for a lightning performance he gave here on his only previous visit against Tommy Rawson.

Mellody, N. E. lightweight champion, triumphant in his last strat over Mike Kaplan by a technical kayo, is in for a busy evening with Nettlow, who is ranked as one of the top lightweights in the mid-West.

Devine Dilboy Fight Victor

Paddy Devine, Cambridge, defeated Bill Wineberg, Dorchester, in three rounds in the diamond ring heavyweight final at Dilboy Field, Somerville, last night.

In another torrid bout, Lou Vivola, Boston, edged Jimmy Blood, Lynn, in three rounds of the 160-pound class.

The results:

115—Tom Wilson, Worcester, defeated Joe DiTamasio, East Boston, three rounds.

126—Armando Torres, Providence, defeated Merun Hunt, Revere, two.

[illegible] Dan Di[illegible], Providence, defeated Joe Lewis, Somerville, three.

147—Mike Dimaio, Roxbury, won by default over Joe Mazzio, Boston.

160—Louis Vivola, Boston, defeated Jimmy Blood, Lynn, three.

Heavyweight—Paddy Devine, Cambridge, defeated Bill Wineberg, Dorchester, three.

Adams Defeated By Masked Marvel

Paul Adams was pinned by the Masked Marvel in two out of three falls in the feature wrestling bout at the Arena last night.

The Marvel took the opener in 17.23, and the third in 17.39, while Adams annexed the second in 8.37.

The Blacks defeated the Whites in the Battle Royal, with Daredevil Ruffin and George Washington Lee disposing of Jack O'Brien and Ed Foley, in 10:36, and 9:01.

Frank Elliott tossed Chippawa Charlie in 16:20; Wally Lipson threw Bull Berini, Art Grennan threw with Dick Turner, and Ed McNeil the same with Carmou Carone.

Tigers Sell

Brooklyn Purchases

DETROIT, Sept. 15 (AP)—Sale of Ray Hayworth, veteran catcher, and Don Ross, rookie third baseman, to the Brooklyn Dodgers at the waiver price of $7500 each has been announced by Walter O. Briggs, president of the Detroit Tigers.

Hayworth, 33 years old, was the regular Detroit catcher for four years prior to 1934 when the Tigers purchased Gordon (Mickey) Cochrane.

Ross, 23 years old, formerly with Toronto, was batting .[illegible] third baseman early this season but was replaced by Mark Christman.

Sox, Indians Battle for 2nd Place

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 15—Boston's grasp on second place in the American League rests largely on the outcome of the final series with Cleveland, which opened today.

Mickey Cochrane

The Red Sox gained ground in Detroit by skinning the Tigers, 9-2, behind the full route pitching of Joe Heving called in instead of Emerson Dickman who was previously announced. Dickman was saved for today.

With the five runs at the outset serving as a hypodermic, Heving toiled manfully and for six innings yielded three hits. He had a relapse in the seventh when the Tigers broke through to tally twice. Recovering from this gesture in the murk of defeat, Heving and eight other Bostons circumvented the Tigers in the eighth and ninth when they appeared momentarily menacing.

The victory broke up the Tiger streak of six straight. Thomas Bridges did not get a man out in the first. With five runs off Bridges, Boston went to work on Roxy Lawson and chased him after he had granted three. Joe Rogalski did all right after the ninth when the Red Sox factored an unneeded run.

Clouds hung low and dark over Briggs stadium all day. It rained for six hours starting shortly after midnight and players and patrons came to the park more or less under the belief they would see a no game sign. The attendance was only 2800, one of the smallest crowds in the 38 years of the American League in Detroit.

Bad weather plus the end-of-season loss of interest and some resentment against the dismissal of Gordon "Mickey" Cochrane are the reasons assigned.

Incidentally, Cochrane spent some time here since his return from a trip to Wyoming and Montana denying that arrangements to confer with Boston officials concerning the possibility of the 1939 managership are on schedule. Cochrane insists his plans are indefinite barring a return to Wyoming for more hunting next month.

Guiliano Enters Newmarket Races

NEWMARKET, N. H., Sept. 15—Louis Guiliano, Providence, R. I., dirt track auto ace, who races in the 20 mile feature at the speedway here Sunday afternoon, plans to ship his high-powered car to the west coast late in the fall where he will take a fling at racing.

Schumacher Out

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (INS)—Hal Schumacher, the lion-heart of the Giant pitching staff, had a date today with his doctor.

The pitching arm that achieved that 2 to 0 triumph over the Pirates yesterday, the victory that boosted the Giants back into the peanant race, hangs lifeless and numb. Unable to provide the slightest assurance when he'll be able to pitch again.

The arm stiffened in the later stages of his struggle with the Bucs and Bosa Terry was quoted as saying "Prince Hal" will have to rest for at least a week, possibly longer.

GrimmSigns Three-Year Air Contract

CHICAGO, Sept. 15 (AP)—For the next three years, Charlie Grimm, former manager of Chicago's Cubs, expects to be telling about what major league clubs are doing instead of telling a major league club what to do.

Charlie Grimm

Grimm who commented in July that he got his first good night's sleep after Gabby Hartnett succeeded him as manager of the Cubs, turned down two offers to return to baseball and signed a three-year contract as a sports announcer for radio station WIBM, Chicago.

After the season ends Grimm will take a vacation at his farm near St. Louis, returning to the air to cover the major and minor league meetings and spring training camps on a sponsored sports series.

Signed as an announcer three days after he was released by Club Owner P. K. Wrigley at a salary of $700 a week, Grimm it was intimated, will be paid a salary close to that he received as manager of the Cubs. The latter was reported to be $75,000 a year.

Silly Ruling on Wrestling Title | Jack Kearns Is Back Tonight

By JACK CONWAY

THE NATIONAL wrestling association in session at Montreal apparently decided that the boys needed a laugh as by a vote of 8 to 6 it proclaimed Everett Marshall "defending heavyweight wrestling champion."

Mr. Boston

The wrestling solons overlooked the fact Marshall has been beaten by Louis Thesz and Steve Casey. As Casey also won from Thesz and Yvon Robert, he is generally recognized as world's champion.

The National Wrestling Association probably decided it wasn't proper that the New York Athletic Commission should have the right to all comedy rulings. The New York organization recently declared Al Hostak's one-round knockout of Freddy Steele, the middleweight champion, was only an evening's workout and didn't carry title recognition, while it asserted John Henry Lewis, world's light heavyweight champion, was just another fighter.

Of course nobody took the rulings of the New York Athletic Association seriously, and I don't look for Old Man Public to get too excited about the latest edict of the National Wrestling Association. When members of Athletic Commissions gather in any kind of a convention they feel the affair would not be official unless they were to pass a few silly rulings. So why not permit the boys to have their fun?

Boston wrestling fans saw Marshall in action last winter, and they concluded he isn't in the same wrestling class with Casey. .In fact big Steve sent Marshall back to the grammar school to learn the three R's.

Under the same reasoning that Marshall was proclaimed world's wrestling champion the National Boxing Association, also in session at Montreal, should decide Max Schmeling is the world's heavyweight champion. Didn't Max get flattened by Joe Louis inside of two minutes? Certainly the German is entitled to some recognition for that feat.

Titles Won and Lost in Ring

TITLES ARE still won and lost in the ring according to the way I look at sports.

There have been numerous efforts on the part of athletic commission to strip champions of their titles at star chamber sessions, but they have usually ended in failure. The public has refused to accept such ridiculous rulings which proves it has better sense and more fairness than the athletic solons.

When athletic bodies begin handing out titles, the politicians gain control, and this means the death knell for the sport they are molesting. There should be a law against such tampering, but, unfortunately, there isn't.

Jack Kearns in Picture Again

JACK KEARNS steps back into the boxing picture in Philadelphia tonight as the manager of Jimmy Adamic of Detroit who clashes with John Henry Lewis, world's light heavyweight champion, in a ten-round bout. Kearns believes he will eventually succeed in getting Adamic, a good puncher, a bout with Joe Louis. Kearns does not wish such a match for another year and a half as he knows that Adamic requires additional ring experience before being pitted against the "Brown Bomber."

As manager of Jack Dempsey, Kearns and Tex Rickard helped give boxing its million-dollar gates. Kearns directed Dempsey in his winning bouts with Jess Willard, Georges Carpentier and Louis Firpo.

Dempsey and Kearns then broke up as a result of the latter's opposition to the marriage between the champion and Estelle Taylor.

Kearns was out of the Dempsey picture before the Tunney bout in Philadelphia. Kearns did everything possible to upset Dempsey before that match. Every place Dempsey turned he was greeted by a sheriff.

Dempsey was a popular idol at the time, and Kearns' actions were severely criticized.

I shall always remember Kearns on the night before the Dempsey-Tunney bout standing alone in front of the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel on Market street in Philadelphia. It was at an hour of the night when the old Kearns would have been tossing a gay party as he told his friends that the tiger would win by a knockout inside of two rounds.

* * *

Kearns Tops as Manager

REGARDLESS OF his personal differences with Kearns, Dempsey always recognized the former's ability as a manager. Dempsey might have retained his title for several years longer than he did if he hadn't broken with Kearns.

The most Kearns can hope to get with Adamic tonight is $3000 to $5000. This must appear as chicken feed when compared to the $450,000 Kearns got for Dempsey in the Firpo bout, and the $300,000 purse in the Carpentier match.

Dempsey and Kearns cut a $2,000,000 melon in the middle. Kearns lost most of his money in poor investments, while he spent a fortune giving lavish parties at night clubs.

Managers of boxers are like long shot players at the track. They are always hoping they will come up with a winner. Right now Kearns has a ticket on Adamic to become world's champion.

Fans O. K. Shamrock's Open Play

By BILL GRIMES

Judging from the crowd which turned out for the Shamrock-All-Star game at Fenway Park, Boston is ripe for the re-entrance of professional football.

And, moreover, the style of football which George Kenneally's and Joe McKenney's elevens played made a fine impression with the gridiron enthusiasts.

One of the most difficult tasks that confront promoters is getting the fans to turn out for an All-Star game. The cash customers have been hunkused so frequently in the past that they side step such attractions.

Bill Scully played fair with the fans. He didn't advertise any star until the player had signed a contract and reported to Coach Joe McKenney.

With the assistance of the American Legion, Bill Scully's Shamrocks and All-Stars put about 20,000 fans in Fenway Park. The crowd measured up to Scully's predictions and because the game was a wide open affair, the fans went home perfectly satisfied that they had received a run for their money. And, they'll be back to see the Shamrocks play the Pittsburgh Pirates next Monday night and the Chicago Bears on October 4.

DALY IS HERO

The All-Stars came from behind to win. The Shamrocks scored in the first period on a long forward pass, but Bill Anderson missed the conversion. Then, in the second periods, the "Rocks" got crossed up on a running play and Jack Daly, Manhattan, scooped up the loose ball and ran for a touchdown. Then, the All-Stars kicked the deciding point.

Tony Di Natale, Boston College; Johnny Handrahan and Warren King, Dartmouth; Frank Souchak, Pittsburgh, and Al Hessberg, Yale, featured for the All-Stars while Bill Anderson, Indiana; Joe Zapustus, Fordham; Steve Gilbert, St. Bonaventure, were the standouts among the Shamrocks.

GRID TIDBITS

But for the fact that his All-Stars were short handed, Coach Joe McKenney might have won by a far wider margin . . . Jack Daly, a great end from Manhattan was injured in the third period and forced to quit. That left the All-Stars with but two flankmen, Merrill Davis, Dartmouth, and Frank Souchak, Pittsburgh.

George Platukus, Duquesne, for being a trifle too loquacious and belligerent, was tossed out of the game in the first period for swapping punches with Merrill Davis and just before he finished the game he started to sound off on "Duke" Lake and the Shamrocks were penalized 15 yards.

TINY PARKER BEATS B'S

In the event that Tiny Parker is still on the National League umpire roster at the beginning of the 1939 season, Ford Frick should return to the newspaper racket. During the few seasons that he has been in the National League, Parker has pulled far too many bones to warrant his retention. He gave Johnny Vander Meer a no-hit, no-run game in Cincinnati, when he called Vince Di Maggio out, despite the fact that the Bees' center fielder had the throw beaten by ten feet. Then, he over-ruled one of his conferees in Pittsburgh and sunk the Bees again. At his best, Parker has never been a major league umpire. Anybody would have rendered a better decision than the one that Parker came up with yesterday, when Gabby Hartnett fouled one into the left field bleachers which was called a fair ball by Parker. That drive was foul by ten feet and with the exception of the arbitrator everyone in National League field, whether they were pro or con Bees were unanimous that Parker had come up with another "bone" . . . Warren King, who played with the All Stars last night against the Shamrocks, left for Hanover N. H. this morning with Johnny Handrahan . . . Merrill Davis, who captained the 1937 Big Green team, started for Maine this morning. After a two weeks' rest in the Pine Tree state, Davis will enter business . . . Freddie Welsh, one of the best the British Isles ever sent over to this country to battle the native sons, has a son working at the Capitol Theater in New York . . . And, Ted "Kid" Lewis, another English boxer, has two sons in Gotham . . . The South Shore Country Club will present Bob Adams, the State Junior champion with a set of golf clubs. Adams has never owned a set of golf clubs . . . The Seattle club of the Pacific Coast League has a $100,444 tag on Pitcher Fred Hutchinson . . . The 444 must be for freight and tax . . . Charlie Toll, the former Tiger tackle, is now studying law at Princeton . . . Jimmy Gleason, young outfielder purchased by the Chicago Cubs from Newark, is the son of a Kansas City movie mogul . . . Taylor-Jacobs Feud Rages

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (INS)—Major General Yussel Jacobs today hurled another war threat in the general direction of the Twentieth Century Sporting Club where Uncle Mike Jacobs, great mogul of the mitt mart, holds forth in regal state.

Shouting defiance at the peerless promoter in phrases of incomparable eloquence, Yussel vowed that the forces of Muggsy Taylorism would no longer peacefully permit the great mogul to restrict them to so puny a portion of the glove globe.

After the major general's thunderous paragraphs had rolled out into the ether, Yussel rose as one man and cheered long and lustily to prove that the full might of the citizenry was in back of him.

FIVE-YEAR CONTRACT

From the council table of the Hippodrome came a dispatch repeating that the great mogul was in a serious condition after almost having died of laughter on receiving intelligence of his enemies' latest bellicose utterance.

"Tony Galento has a five-year contract with Herman Taylor just the way Joe Louis has one with Mike Jacobs." The ecstatic orator warmed up to his task as a three-foot cigar filled the room with the smoke of battle.

"Now because Tony is tied to Taylor, that doesn't mean he can't fight Louis when June comes around. But Taylor will have to be cut in on the deal. You get my train?" he inquired choo-choodistically.

"I'm trying to help Taylor tie up as many good heavyweights as possible, so that he can produce the outstanding challenger for the heavyweight title.

"Now we have sole promotional rights to John Henry Lewis and Jimmy Adamick, whom Taylor is putting on in Philadelphia tomorrow night; also Tommy Farr and Jim Braddock. And we have a tentative agreement with Max Schmeling. I cabled him information on the situation, and I expect an answer any day.

BRADDOCK READY

"Max Baer had a contract to meet Louis which, I think, expires September 30," Major-General Yussell bellowed triumphantly. "I've sent a letter to Ancil Hoffman, Baer's manager, and I don't see why he won't come in with us, too.

"What challengers does Mike have?" The superb sock statesman's tone was tipped with burning scorn. "Only Barlund and Pastor, and they're not worth anything.

"He had Tommy Farr, but he wanted to force him to fight Barlund or Maurice Strickland," Yussel strummed a pathetic string on his bombastic banjo.

"When Farr wouldn't do it, Mike Jacobs declared he was out of the heavyweight picture. That's why Joe Gould came over to us with Farr and Braddock.

"I spoke to Braddock the other day, and he's really sincere about comin gback and fighting Schmeling for Taylor down in Maine in February. It oughta draw well, too, after the run-around Braddock gave Schmeling when he was champ."

Thus did Major-General Yussel Jacobs thunder the bid for power that sent the great mogul to bed with an acute attack of Olympian laughter.

Our Caddie [illegible]

It looked like a wrestling show at home plate when the Giants' Mr. Kampouris and Catcher Al Todd of the Pirates struck this pose after the latter had taken a throw from Gus Suhr at first to tag Kampy out. Kampy got mad and in the very next inning he slapped out a home run.

Pirates Still Hold Edge

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

NEW YORK, Sept. 15—The Giants rapped twice on the door today and are now one up on opportunity. The Pirates dropped two as neatly as a soused juggler.

The Cubs were copping in Boston at the time and the National League race is closer than a barber's breath. The best the Reds could do was to split even in Brooklyn. But even the politicians and the racketeers do that over there.

In our opinion, which is always humble, but nevertheless, always correct, we figure that the results show which way the cat bounces. If the Pirates had won two they would be perched as pretty as a stenographer on her boss's lap. And it was the general weather forecast for New York and vicinity that they would have no trouble slapping the Giants sideways.

Instead, Schumacher and Gumbert set 'em back on their concave heels twice in one matinee. Which makes Bill Terry a great manager again if only for a day. Two games in four hours is the jackpot.

Now the race is a hoss of a different color. And a dead hoss too.

Cincinnati lost a real autographed chance to sneak up on the first two teams by permitting Brooklyn to grab one out of two. But that's the Brooklyn way in September. They are always trying to make a good showing for next season.

The fact that Pittsburgh dropped two doesn't shrivel their chances for the pennant. But it shows the Pirate pitching staff is as wobbly as a broken whip.

The deuce victories now levels the Giants with the Reds for the trey spot. They still have an outside chance like a bum rapping on the side door of a saloon.

The Giants are moving along at a .500 clip since August 9th. If they manage to crank her a little faster they can freeze the ice cream. The Pirates aren't doing much better than .400 for the same time. But the trouble is the Cubs are stepping out like a shag dancer after a swipe of Harlem gin.

There's no use trimming the Pirates if nobody stops the Cubs. And nobody has been doing that lately. And while Bill Terry must feel pretty good about the double clutch it really don't close any sales. Like John Alden kissing Priscilla for Miles Standish all he is accomplishing is doing a favor for another guy. It's nice work if it gets you.

The Pirates are still the best bet to win. After all, they have still got a good lead. But, like the monkey that kissed the porcupine, they'll know they've been in a contest.

Ex-Winners Again Enter Ace Contest

All the former prize winners in both the men's and women's divisions are expected to be among the entry list for the annual Boston Evening American-Sunday Advertiser Hole-In-One tournament which gets under way bright and early Monday morning at Franklin Park.

Included in the long list of entries already received are noted the names of more than a dozen who have carried off prizes in previous Hole-In-One contests, a fascinating contest at that in which dubs and stars start off all even, with Lady Luck playing an important role.

To enter the Hole-In-One contest just fill out the blank printed in the sports section of this newspaper and send it along.

The specially-constructed Hole-In-One is close by the first tee at the Scarborough course.

Latest War Crisis Bulletins!

PRAGUE, Sept. 15 (INS)—Czechoslovakia's Sudeten border region early today resounded to civil warfare in which 68 persons were unofficially estimated to have been killed and 350 wounded in 24 hours of bloody clashes. The latest fighting occurred at Eger where it was reported six were killed including a woman, a policeman and four civilians, two of them local journalists.

PRAGUE, Sept. 15 (AP)—The Czechoslovakian government today dispatched more troops and tanks to suppress disorders in the Sudeten regions, the death toll of which was not yet fully known.

BERLIN, Sept. 15 (AP)—DNB, official German news agency, reported today in a dispatch from Neugersdorf, Saxony, near the Czechoslovak border, that war preparations in northern Czechoslovakia were alarmingly on the increase.

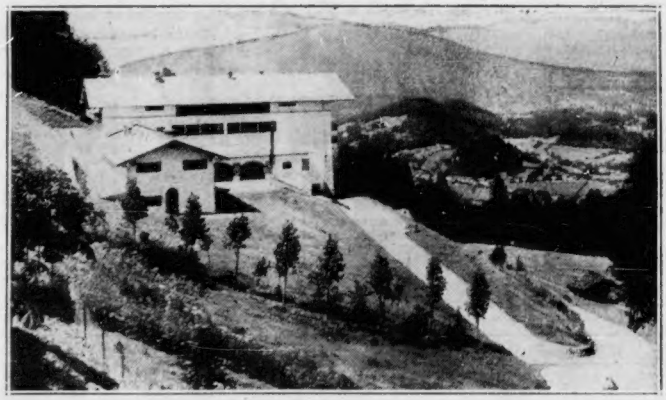
ROME, Sept. 15 (INS)—Prime Minister Chamberlain's decision to have a face-to-face talk with Hitler won him high praise today from Pope Pius. It was learned from an unimpeachable source that the Pontiff, commenting on Chamberlain's trip in a morning conference with Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, remarked: "This gesture places him among the greats of humanity."

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (AP)—The tumult of trading in the war-excited stock market died away today, after a soaring $1 to $4 rally at the opening. As speculators took a breathing spell to await developments in the Chamberlain-Hitler talk. Initial gains had partly disappeared near the close.

BERLIN, Sept. 15 (INS)—The Sudeten crisis moved into a new and acute stage today when a general strike was proclaimed throughout the Sudeten area.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (INS)—The American government has formulated a policy of "strict neutrality" toward the crisis which threatens to engulf Europe in war. The decision charting the nation's course should armed conflict come was reached by President Roosevelt in telephonic conferences with Secretary of State Hull. If war comes this government will maintain a strict "hands off" attitude.

LONDON, Sept. 15 (AP)—The British government arranged today to recall Parliament to hear Prime Minister Chamberlain's personal report on his talk with Chancellor Adolf Hitler. The exact date for reassembly will be fixed after it is learned when Chamberlain is to return.



Fateful Meeting—Here at Berchtesgaden, high in the Bavarian Alps, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Fuehrer Hitler met today to decide the peace of Europe.

PRAGUE, Sept. 15, (AP)—The Czech government further extended martial law today to meet possible new disorders. Two new districts, bringing the total to 12, were placed under military control. Districts where martial law is in effect contain 2,000,000 of Czechoslovakia's 3,500,000 Sudeten Germans.

(A DNM dispatch said the entire population of the Sudeten border village of Phillipsdorf crossed the frontier into Germany, staged a demonstration, and returned home with Swastika flags to decorate their houses.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—Secretary Morgenthau disclosed today that the European crisis has caused the "largest flight to the dollar in history." Recent treasury gold acquisitions indicate several hundred million dollars of foreign cash have arrived here in the last few weeks.
